

Important Counseling Links

Last Updated Friday, 01 February 2008

Important Counseling Links

Many people ask me about where I received my education.

Here are links to Fairhaven
College where I did my under graduate work and LIOS
/The Leadership Institute of Seattle where I did my graduate work.

Pictures

Pictures on my site are provided by Michael Stadler. Please visit his work at www.stadlerstudio.com

Addiction

If you are struggling with addiction Alcoholics
Anonymous and Narcotics
Anonymous and other 12 Step programs are the still some of the best support you will find any where.

For quitting smoking, <http://quitnet.com>.
Best site I have seen for support around stopping smoking.

Peer Counseling using Re-evaluation Co-counseling

Re-evaluation Co-Counseling is a great worldwide organization that offers training in peer counseling.
It is an effective mutual support and leadership development network.
Use of this tool brings together thousands of people from around the globe to improve their own lives and the world. This organization continues to be a place where I get some of my best ideas. Check it out.

Domestic Violence

If you are a woman in a domestic violence situation in Seattle, the folks at New Beginnings can help.

Therapy Search

Here is a site of other good therapists in Seattle, Therapy Search.

Just for Fun!

Finally, just for fun, a virtual version of refrigerator magnet poetry and my favorite map.

Desktop poetry: Send me your poems I would love to see them

World map: To see a different perspective go to this site